

St. Columba's Episcopal Church Big Bear

The first of a series of testimonials from our congregation.

I am a member of St. Columba's Episcopal Church because, after years of no affiliation, I finally found a denomination based on core beliefs, without contemporary guilt trips. The Nicene Creed says it all. We confess our sins to God before receiving Holy Communion, confident that if we are repentant, God forgives us. Thus, we are the judge of what sins we have committed, not the church or the Priest. Our Vicar, Fr. Stuart Swann, uses his sermon to bring the biblical lessons of the day into contemporary perspective, and because so many of us in the congregation are converts, instruction on the Episcopal point of view. I have found this enormously satisfying and uplifting, by Jan Stoll.
